

About The AUTHOR

As a Residential Maintenance and Alteration Contractor for 28 years in Michigan, Carmen has been working in a living laboratory of residential homes. A customer base that transcends all social and economic experiences in the residential marketplace provided the environment where Carmen learned and developed the insight into the homeowner/contractor relationship. Carmen's problem-solving abilities are a requirement for success in the painting and decorating trades and he honed these skills in homes just like yours. Real-life experiences with homeowners and contractors alike allows Carmen to provide first-hand knowledge on the difficulties and problems every homeowner and contractor face.
